Want to Change the World?

Free course starting in Dunbar

What: Taster Session for U.Lab

When: Thursday 18th August, 7.8.30pm

Where: Bleachingfield Centre, Dunbar

East Lothian residents are invited to take part in a free 8-week course on changing the world. Known as U.Lab, the course is a Massive Open Online Course (MOOC). Last year thousands of people around the world participated, including hundreds in Scotland. It is hoped that Dunbar can be a "hub" for people from around the area.

The course teaches participants how to respond to many changes and disruptions in the world, from inequality to climate change. It helps participants to find ways to make change in themselves, their communities and society in order to change the world. The course was developed in the United States at MIT and now draws in thousands of participants from 182 countries.

Local activists Elisabeth Wilson and Chris Bruce undertook the course last year and are offering a free "taster session" at the Bleachingfield Centre in Dunbar on Thursday 18th August from 7pm to 8.30pm. The hub is being supported locally by Sustaining Dunbar, a development trust, and the first of eight sessions starts on Thursday 8 September.

Participants can register for the taster at Eventbrite: <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/ulab-taster-dunbar-tickets-27015397782> or just come along.

BT Payphone Removal Consultations

BT has been undertaking extensive research to identify public payphones that are no longer viable to keep. There are currently 36 public payphones in East Lothian which have been identified and proposed for removal by BT under the 90-day consultation process, although this number may be subject to minor change as the removal notices are physically posted.

Through our Adopt a Kiosk scheme; communities will also have the opportunity to adopt any phone box for just £1. The traditional, red phone boxes are part of our heritage and by opening them up for adoption; your community can keep these iconic landmarks and put them to great use. Uses made of phone boxes already adopted include a grocery shop, a wildlife information centre and the Community Heartbeat Trust charity has even installed defibrillators in some boxes. You can find out more about our Adopt a Kiosk scheme in the enclosed brochure or you can download an electronic copy at:

You can download an electronic copy that sets out the rationale and process the BT are following to help you better understand why they are looking to remove some payphones at:
