Small Business Saturday 3rd December 2016 Dunbar Town Centre

This celebration is an annual celebration which marks the day where we are encouraged to shop local, avoid the multi nationals and turn off the eBay and Amazon ordering on our phones and laptops, get out and get involved in our community. Surely an easy ask in one of the top 5 coastal towns in the UK!

Our high street traders work tirelessly all year round to help create a vibrant community, supporting donations for many charities to the tune of thousands of pounds, creating sustainable jobs for locals and many youngsters, creating a friendly and welcoming environment for locals and visitors alike, acting as tourist guides for those visitors new to the area and it's rich history and culture and most importantly providing a vital service to those who cannot travel or don't have access to internet shopping.

On Saturday 3rd December all we ask is that you come out, spend a little money in one of the local shops and have a chat. There will likely be press coverage on the day and we welcome you sharing this special day with your networks. A link for sharing is here

Fully Funded Road Safety Community Performances

Road Safety Scotland, the government funded body responsible for the development of road safety education and publicity initiatives in Scotland, is funding Baldy Bane Theatre Company to tour a road safety resource for the community.

The stage play Better Late Than Dead on Time is designed for performance to all generations within communities and covers many issues such as the various hazards to drivers and pedestrians; young drivers, including problems of teenage drinking; parents parking too close to school gates; reaction times of older drivers; inappropriate speed. Baldy Bane is due to tour this new drama all over Scotland for a 5 week period from 27th February until 31st March 2017. It is hoped that a wide variety of groups will take up the offer to host the production in their local community venue.

SESplan, the Strategic Development Planning Authority for the Edinburgh and south east Scotland region has published the Proposed Strategic Development Plan. This is a key step in replacing the current Strategic Development Plan of 2013 and is the final opportunity for comments to be made. The Proposed Strategic Development Plan deals with a range of strategic planning issues including housing, transport and green infrastructure for a twenty year period beginning in 2018. Its role will be to guide Local Development Plans produced by Local Authorities in the future.

Comments, known as representations, can be made on the Proposed Strategic Development Plan for a six week period between Thursday 13 October and Thursday 24 November 2016. Representations can be submitted using SESplan's consultation portal: sesplan-consult.objective.co.uk. In line with government guidelines, representations should set out the specific changes you think should be made to the plan along with your reason(s) for them. Representations should be limited to 2,000 words per issue, though you are welcome to submit representations on more than one issue.

The Proposed Strategic Development Plan can be read and downloaded online at www.sesplan.gov.uk. Paper copies can be read in libraries and planning offices within the region during normal opening hours.

- Monday 7 November, City Chambers, Edinburgh
- Wednesday 9 November, The Brunton, Musselburgh

More information on the Proposed Strategic Development Plan and supporting documents, events and making a representation can be found on the SESplan website www.sesplan.gov.uk
